

THE SUN STILL SHINES IN TEXAS

(T. Hornisch)

Well the sun still shines in Texas,
Though Buddy Holly fell from the sky
Father time may forever move on,
Still we all can leave something behind
Now I'm finally starting to see
What it takes to run down a dream
All this time I've been asleep, someone wake me
Well I've been stuck in Dylan's traffic
Out on highway 61
Before you know this time is precious
Your younger days are gone
So don't you ever believe
That your dreams are out of reach
How long have I been asleep? Someone shake me
Ooooh I love your eyes
Darling I love your smile
Well the sun still shines in Texas
In your Midsummer Night's Dream
I'm rolling down to Memphis,
May the Kings forever rest in peace
Now my heart has started to beat,
Man something is stirring in me
All this time I was asleep, you've awakened me
All this time I was asleep, you've awakened me

WHERE YOU'RE COMING FROM

(T. Hornisch)

You've been holding out for something real
A pick me up to cure the stall
Sometimes the next move isn't easily revealed
You have to push yourself to fall
I know where you're coming from
You're not alone, where you're coming from
You've been holding out for something real
To carry you down from this cloud
I wish indecision was something I could steal
From those who need an answer now
I know where you're coming from
You're not alone, where you're coming from
I know where you're coming from
You're not alone, where you're coming from
Don't you worry our love is sturdy
And through this ocean of time we'll journey
And don't you worry I'll always be flirting with you
I know where you're coming from
You're not alone, where you're coming from
I know where you're coming from
You're not alone, where you're coming from

CRYING SHAME

(C. Hornisch)

On a B-Line bolting for the border line
Somebody whispers "life's just a roll of the dice"
You can leave your keys on the table
And wed yourself to some brand new advice
'Cause I don't recall what I used to see
Looking back's just a flash of make believe
Like a dream left stranded in the rain
It's a cry, cry, cry crying shame
On a freeway fixing for the finish line
Somebody tells me "nobody runs with the stars"
When you leave be sure you take that with you
And let's see if you get very far
'Cause I don't recall what I used to hear
Looking back's just a flash then it disappears
Like a dream left standing in the rain
It's a cry, cry, cry crying shame
After midnight searching for a better time
Somebody points out "after all it's only life"
You can leave your dreams on the table
And tell yourself that you got a fair price
'Cause I don't recall what I used to feel
Looking back's just a flash and then you heal
Like a dream left searching for a name
It's a cry, cry, cry crying shame
Oh, oh you went and gone too far
Oh, oh now look at where you are
Now look at where you are (x3)
In my younger days somewhere lost in summer time
Somebody does their best to break up a fight
You can let go and let destiny take you
Or you can hold on and suffer the price

'Cause I don't recall what I used to know
Looking back's just a flash then you're feeling old
Like a dream left fading in the rain
It's a cry, cry, cry crying shame

I NEED YOU NOW

(C. Hornisch)

Holding onto your four-leaf clover
After all it got you through yesterday
Can't quite pin down what you're stumbling over
After all you've been through you can't say
One hour Sunday and you'd think that you're an angel
Hell, I won't let it bring me down
I need you now (x3)
Instant exposure, you smooth approach her
Tell her you'd die for her the following day
Roll me over, hold me closer
Keep me from fading away
She's standing close now she's talking like an angel
And I believe that I'm falling in love
I need you now (x3)
Like a soldier, shoulder to shoulder
Draw you the line and then teach you to say
Tell me over and over and over
You can will what you want from today
This crowded road has got me going somewhere
But it's nowhere near where I want to be
I need you now (x3)
